

Source: Independent i {Main}
Edition:
Country: UK
Date: Thursday 12, April 2018
Page: 2
Area: 63 sq. cm
Circulation: ABC 254117 Daily
Ad data: page rate £10,472.00, scc rate £44.00
Phone: 020 7005 2000
Keyword: University College Cork

NATURE

Ancient butterflies had golden wings

Ancient butterflies and moths dating back 200 million years flew on wings of gold. Scientists analysed ridges and grooves in the wing scales of fossilised insects to reveal their colour for the first time. Dr Maria McNamara, of University College Cork, said: "We didn't even expect to find wing scales preserved."

